2.3.5 Continual mentoring is provided by teachers for developing professional attributes in students

Report:

1. SJVPM College of Education, provides a variety of provisions to support and enhance the effectiveness of the faculty in teaching learning and mentoring of students.
2. The work culture of the college is quite conducive for the professional growth and competence of the faculty as well as the prospective teachers (students). Along with these various opportunities are provided to the teacher and students for the professional growth and enhancing their ability.
3. Continual mentoring is provided by teachers to imbibe quality teaching practices that honor diversity and create classroom environments. A warm and conducive environment is provided that supports personal, social and academic success for all students.
4. They are enriched further by arranging talks on the themes like Communication Skills, New trends in teaching methodologies, role of ICT, personality development, inclusiveness and Life skills.
5. Webinars, workshops and seminar are planned and organized to inculcate soft skills as well as professional skills in the students.
6. A faculty member is a mentor for a group of students whom he/she consistently monitors for academic and personal issues over their academic period. The mentor looks into matters regarding the academic performance, discipline, completion of academic requirements, health issues and grievances if any.
7. The mentor is the first person whom the student approaches for any personal or academic guidance.

8. They provide their guidance and counsel the students time to time. The mentor interacts with the parents for a comprehensive understanding of the problems faced by the students if needed.
9. Students from rural background are motivated to boost their confidence levels and be part of the main stream. More than enough opportunities are provided throughout the session to identify their interest and enhance their abilities.

1. Working in teams

Students are made to work in team 2018-23
